Membership Campaign Will Not Deter Usual Work—Bible "Movies" Shown to Boys' Department Yesterday.

Open house will be held all week at the Y. M. C. A. Members have been requested to invite friends to inspect the association's equipment during the membership campaign. Special efforts will be made to show prospective members recent improvements in the handball courts, in the swimming pool, and the new lockers.

No activities will be suspended during the campaign. Gymnasium classes will be on as usual. The educational department will start its new semester in February 1 with the largest enrollment it has yet had, and the agencies returns, in which much interest has been shown, will start on February 4. This course is open to all men and boys, whether members of the association or not, and application for free course tickets may be made to Thomas Walton, educational director.

Representative M. Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania, addressed the Sunday afternoon lobby meeting yesterday, his topic being "The Threshold." In the boys' department the first of a series of Sunday afternoon Bible "movies" were shown. "Daniel" was the subject of yesterday afternoon's film. Bible stories will continue to be illustrated each Sunday afternoon for several months.

Active work is being done by the religious department in working up the books that will show the Washington police department in action. When completed this film will be shown at various places in the city under Y. M. C. A. auspices in connection with a lecture on the work of the police department.

Announcement was made yesterday that prominent speakers will be engaged to address the workers at the dinners to be held each evening during the campaign.

DR. BAKER LECTURES.

Tells Theosophical Federation of Restoration of "Myteries."

"Restoration of the 'Myteries' of the Early Church" was the subject of a lecture delivered by Dr. W. W. Baker before the Theosophical Federation of Washington yesterday.

"The masses, the lecturer said, 'look over for guidance to the leaders in religion, science, and industry, and it has become evident that the leadership followed for fifty years has not proved of universal value. There is a tendency in man to look to some teacher better instructed than himself for his moral instruction, and his leaders along all lines should be imbued with moral truth. Especially is this necessary for the spiritual leaders of any age—for those who teach the 'myteries' of God."

"In the Christian Scriptures and in profane literature is found evidence that there existed an inner teaching handed down by word of mouth only from generation to generation of spiritual teachers, which had its origin in divine revelation and which gave to those to whom it was confided true spiritual knowledge. By the selfishness of the priesthood and the indifference of the masses this inner teaching has been temporarily overclouded, but its restoration is evident in the mystical teachings given today of reincarnation, Karma, and the multiple bodies of man."

MISS RICHARDS' WEEKLY TALK
War, So Far, Only Draw

The large Lecture Room at Woodward & Lothrop's was again filled last Monday morning to hear Miss Janet Richards' weekly presentation of "Current History Day by Day."

These morning talks have been described by a well-known Washington attorney as "a civic blessing," and the increasing number of men who find time to attend them would seem to endorse this sentiment.

Many Questions at Home.

Miss Richards began her lecture with the statement that "while the European war continued to occupy the center of the world's stage as the most compelling and awful fact of daily history, still we could not—as Americans—be indifferent to the fact that there are many grave questions of home interest to which we must devote our attention."

"Some of these are: 'Current Congressional legislation, the so-called "President's program" of unfinished legislation, including the proposed "shipping bill"; the ratification of the treaties with Nicaragua and Colombia and the Philippines bill; the possibility of new complications with Mexico due to the dispute over the oil fields, and the regrettable friction between our country and Great Britain resulting from the shipping controversy."

"By a strange coincidence, the two English-speaking nations are again engaged in a sharp dispute concerning detention of neutral ships and right of search on the high seas, just as we are congratulating ourselves on having secured a century of peace, dating from the conclusion of the War of 1812, the causes of which were similar to those involved in the present controversy."

Passing to political affairs at home, Miss Richards said: "During the past week we have been rudely reminded that our brief year of a half of political peace between Presidential campaigns is at an end, and that with the President's Indianapolis speech, followed by the vigorous reply from the floor of the United States Senate by Senator Borah and others, and the launching of the Herrick boom at the Ohio banquet in New York on January 18, the partisan campaign of 1916 may be regarded as fairly launched, and from now on the rival political pots may be expected to boil busily."

After briefly outlining the terms of the proposed ship purchase bill and the latest phases of the Mexican question, Miss Richards took up "with some reluctance," she said, "because of its personal character," the "Sullivan investigation," now going on in New York before Senator-elect Elihu Root of New York, an investigation ordered by President Wilson to probe the charges made by Walter Vlek, former receiver of customs in San Domingo, against our present Minister to the Dominican Republic, James Sullivan, who succeeded William Fulliam to that place in August, 1912.

Cannot Govern Themselves.

Going back to the Roosevelt administration, from 1894 to 1907, Miss Richards reviewed the circumstances which led the United States to take the administration of the Dominican finances under its control.

"As we all know," said the speaker, "the two so-called 'black republics' of Haiti and Santo Domingo, which jointly constitute an island in the Caribbean Sea, have never been able to demonstrate fitness for self-government. On the contrary, they are constantly embroiled in local revolutions, the result of their striving to pitch out the 'ins,' apparently to get control of the treasury and 'administer' the country's revenues. The inspiring motive of these revolutions, which seems to be 'office for revenue only'."

"During President Roosevelt's administration, the chaos that reigned in these revolutions of this kind in San Domingo resulted in practical bankruptcy and an attempted repudiation of the republic's foreign debts. The United States, including citizens of Great Britain and Germany, became so insistent that these two governments actually sent their envoys to this proceeding here for rather threateningly, to 'circle' around the island of San Domingo. This 'naval demonstration' was clearly intended as a hint that the United States would take place at Odd Fellows' Hall, North Columbus street, and will be followed by a banquet, which the Ladies' Auxiliary will serve."

Gen. E. W. Bradford, of Washington, and staff of officers numbering fifteen, will make the annual inspection of Cannon No. 1, Odd Fellows, at 3 o'clock tomorrow night. The inspection will take place at Odd Fellows' Hall, North Columbus street, and will be followed by a banquet, which the Ladies' Auxiliary will serve."

The funeral of William Rogers, who died Friday, took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the family home, 103 South Fayette street. Services were conducted by Rev. W. J. Morton, rector of Christ P. C. Church. Burial was made in St. Paul's cemetery. Pallbearers were W. H. Cox, Martin Murphy, S. Devera,

They Accepted Roosevelt Plan.

"With the concurrence of the then Dominican President, Carlos Morales, President Roosevelt sent United States gunboats to Santo Domingo, landed Marines, restored order at their capital, and proceeded to take over and administer the finances of the republic."

"The arrangement, which was later made into a treaty and formally ratified in 1907 by both governments, provided for a United States receiver of customs, who should collect all the revenues of the republic and proceed to administer them. Half the revenue collected was to be deposited in a reliable New York bank to satisfy the just demands of all foreign creditors. Of the remaining revenue 4 per cent was to be devoted to the expenses of running the Dominican government and 5 per cent to defray the expenses of administration by American officials."

"As this plan, which has been in operation since 1905, was clearly designed to replace corrupt conditions with a just and honest administration for the benefit of all concerned, it is surely humiliating that charges of so serious a nature should now be made against American officials that charges of so serious a nature should now be made against American officials that charges of so serious a nature should now be made against American officials."

GIVES CONCERT TONIGHT.

Monday Morning Club Has Interesting Program Arranged.

The Monday Morning Music Club will give a concert at the New Willard Hotel this evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Martens and "All Thru' the Night," an old Welsh air, arranged by Louis Victor Saar.

WILSON MAY VETO MEASURE.

Immigration Bill Does Not Please President, It Is Thought.

President Wilson is expected to veto the immigration bill the early part of this week. It is believed that the President will send the measure back to Congress before Thursday with a message explaining his opposition to the literacy test for immigrants, which was the subject of a public hearing at the White House on Friday.

"Unless the bill is vetoed by the President before Thursday, it will become a law without his signature."

War Is Draw So Far.

"In view of the fact that neither side has, as yet, won a victory; nor, in fact, seemingly diminished the military power of its opponent, the war to date may be termed a plain 'draw'." she said. "For, while Germany does occupy and even 'administer' Belgium, she has, on the other hand, lost most of her colonies. And since one of her motives in going to war was colonial expansion, to find a large place in the sun, and since she still has immense reserves and food supplies sufficient for two more years, it is
